This Porsche 356 outlaw puts the sauce in flying saucer

Lead
Originally delivered to Roswell, New Mexico, this Porsche 356 Outlaw for sale with O’Kane Lavers has been perfectly restored with everyday drivability as the top priority.

Say what you will about outlaw Porsche builds, but you can’t deny that there’s a exhilarating sense of freedom when you stop caring about perfectly recreating a factory-spec car. While we might not have been quite so gung-ho about personalising a Pre-A Porsche 356, the later 356 B is the perfect candidate for the outlaw treatment; just look at this stunning 1960 Porsche 356 B outlaw for sale with O’Kane Lavers.

Delivered new to Roswell, New Mexico, this UFO-shaped sports car was relocated to Connecticut following the original owner’s death. In 2017, it was found sheltered in a barn with just 27,225 miles and shipped to the UK, marking the start of a four year restoration involving some of the UK’s leading Porsche experts. After being stripped back to bare metal, repairs and custom modifications were carried out on the body, while the engine and gearbox (which are original to the car) were completely rebuilt along with the running gear, suspension and brakes. With a gorgeous exterior ready to wow onlookers, work began on the bespoke interior. Luxurious Scottish Moorhead leather adorns the seats, while German weave carpets and professionally refurbished original gauges complete what looks to be an absolutely immaculate cabin. So, if you want a matching-numbers Porsche that you can just get out and drive, then look no further than this stunning 356 B outlaw.
