These 1990s supercar luggage sets are the ultimate collectibles

Lead

If you bought a Ferrari F50, Bugatti EB110 or Lamborghini Diablo GT in the 1990s, the excess did not end with the unicorn supercar itself – you just had to have the limited-edition luggage as well. Here are our six favourite sets.

For the discerning collector, the ultimate cherry on top to any 1990s supercar is not just a pristine service history or an ultra-low mileage — it's the bespoke luggage set that once completed the ownership experience. Designed to slot perfectly into the limited cargo space of these high-performance machines, these exquisite travel companions were often crafted from the finest Italian leather or high-tech materials by the finest craftsmen of their professions. Today, these rare accessories are as sought-after as the cars themselves, offering an evocative glimpse into the golden era of analogue supercars. Luckily, there are plenty of highly desirable automotive bags and suitcases for sale in the Classic Driver Market and CD Shop.

Ferrari Testarossa Luggage Set

The Ferrari Testarossa was the wedge-shaped poster car of the 1980s and 1990s, and its matching Schedoni luggage set completed the dream. Crafted from supple leather and designed to fit perfectly within the car's limited storage compartments, it was the mark of a well-heeled Ferrari connoisseur. Today, a complete set is as essential to a collector as the iconic side strakes.

Ferrari F40 Schedoni Leather Luggage Set

Handcrafted by the craftsmen of Schedoni in Modena to accompany the most uncompromising supercar of its era, this Ferrari F40 luggage set is as much an icon as the car itself. Wrapped in sumptuous tan leather with embossed Prancing Horse insignias, it was the final touch for owners who demanded elegance alongside raw performance. Today, finding a complete and pristine set is akin to discovering a unicorn — rare, valuable, and utterly desirable.

Bugatti EB110 Luggage Set

Created to complement the engineering tour de force that was the Bugatti EB110, this luggage set is as exquisitely detailed as the car itself. Crafted with fine leather and showcasing the period's elegant Bugatti branding, it was designed for those who travelled at speed in supreme comfort, fitting a pair of Berluti shoes, a bottle of Krug and some printouts of these high-performing Nokia and Microsoft stocks. Owning this set today is like possessing a tangible slice of Romano Artioli's audacious dream.

Lamborghini Diablo GT Carbon Fibre Briefcase

As aggressive and purposeful as the Lamborghini Diablo GT itself, this carbon fibre briefcase was the ultimate statement for owners of Lamborghini's wildest road car. More aerospace than old-world leather, it embodies the lightweight philosophy that made the GT a raw and visceral machine. This particular pre-production prototype was presented to Lamborghini's directors before finalizing the Diablo GT briefcase design. And just like the car, it is a rare and thrilling piece of Lamborghini history.

Ferrari F50 Schedoni NOS Luggage Set

If the Ferrari F50 was Maranello's ultimate open-top analogue masterpiece, then its Schedoni luggage set is a tribute to an era of bespoke craftsmanship and racetrack-inspired excess. Never used and preserved in New Old Stock (NOS) condition, this set is a time capsule of Maranello's 1990s extravagance. For collectors seeking factory-fresh originality and the smell of untouched leather, this is as good as it gets.
