

CLASSIC DRIVER

Multi-million-dollar 'Design Masters' and 'Design Day' sales in New York

With Art Deco and classic, modern design seemingly more popular than ever, Phillips de Pury grossed nearly $5m at its recent, 13-14 December sales.

Many items achieved record prices. Lot 158, for example, a masterpiece in steel from the 1940s by French artist Jean Royère sold for $68,500 – five times its estimate.

The impressive results for the sales show how mid-20th Century pieces are catching the collector's eye. The most expensive item in the sale was the Emile-Jacques Ruhlmann sitting room suite 'Gonse', which sold for $1,426,500.

Alexander Payne, Worldwide Director of Design at Phillips de Pury & Company was delighted with the results, confident that the company's successful autumn sales had built a strong foundation for a good finish to the year. 20th Century design is clearly on the up.

For further information, visit phillipsdepur.com.

Text: Classic Driver

Photos: Phillips de Pury & Company

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/multi-million-dollar-%E2%80%98design-masters%E2%80%99-and-%E2%80%98design-day%E2%80%99-sales-new-york>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.