

CLASSIC DRIVER

Longines 'Saint-Imier Collection'

Lead

For 180 years, the district of Saint-Imier, in the Swiss Jura, has been the home of Longines. To celebrate this, the company has launched a new 'Saint-Imier Collection' at Baselworld 2012.

In a range that encompasses many different styles, sizes, movements and materials, the 44mm-diameter chronograph stands out.

Powered by an in-house calibre L707 (produced by ETA especially for Longines) movement, it comes in a choice of black or silvered dial, mounted on a black or brown alligator strap, or a steel bracelet.

Its functions include: day of the week; date; second time-zone; and small seconds.

Photo: Longines

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/longines-%E2%80%98saint-imier-collection%E2%80%99>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.