

CLASSIC DRIVER

Rapide-based Aston Martin Jet 2+2 Shooting Brake to debut at Geneva

Lead

In advance of next week's Geneva Motor Show, word is out that Bertone will be taking the wraps off a shooting brake concept version of the Aston Martin Rapide...

Known as the Bertone Jet 2+2, it follows on from the Jet 2 concept car – a shooting brake version of the Vanquish – that the Italian design house unveiled in 2004 (and which was itself named after the Giugiaro-styled Bertone Jet of 1961). The latest Jet has been created to celebrate both Aston's centenary in 2013, and 60 years of collaborations between Aston and Bertone. The four-seater retains the Rapide's underpinnings and dimensions, as well as the 470bhp 5.9-litre V12, but is clothed in an elegantly stretched body.

Photos: Bertone

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/rapide-based-aston-martin-jet-22-shooting-brake-debut-geneva>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.