

CLASSIC DRIVER

When Jaguar's designers went shopping at Harrods

Lead

Has Jaguar's Advanced Design director Julian Thomson and his team gone on a shopping spree at Harrods? Why else would three Jaguar concept cars be seen parked outside the upmarket London department store?

Ah, right, there is an explanation: the Jaguar C-X17 sports crossover concept, the F-type Project 7 one-off (as seen at the Goodwood Festival of Speed) and the C-X75 - Jaguar's vision for the hypercar of the future - were part of a presentation to launch the design show 'Wallpaper * Handmade', which runs at Harrods until 22 October 2013. Handmade products from the likes of Hermès, Louis Vuitton and Poltrona Frau, to name but a few, can now be seen on display across the 12 windows of the famous Knightsbridge shop.

Gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/when-jaguars-designers-went-shopping-harrods>
© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.