

CLASSIC DRIVER

Will high-end classics soon be driving autonomously?

Lead

Are these the first autonomous classic cars, or has a gaggle of ghouls borrowed the £20m fleet for a night-time joyride around London...?

Fear not: none of the automotive icons in this video have suffered the intrusion of supernatural forces, or worse, contemporary technology. Making use of some impressive CGI trickery along with a Ferrari California Spider and an Aston Martin DB4 GT Zagato Sanction III, the film was commissioned by Hexagon Classics in order to celebrate an important year ahead. The company will soon open a new purpose-built showroom in the trendy Finchley area of North London named 'The Hexagon', which will incorporate space for 40 traditional classic and 'modern classic' cars, as well as a modern art gallery and a restaurant with a Michelin-starred chef.

Video: Hexagon Classics

Gallery

Includes video

Has video

Hide gallery

Hide gallery

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/cars/will-high-end-classics-soon-be-driving-autonomously>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.