

CLASSIC DRIVER

Ogle this monstrous Ducati as it goes from the workbench to the racetrack

Lead

The ultimate satisfaction for any custom motorcycle builder must surely be the moment their beloved creations leave the workshop and hit the road or track for the very first time. This short film from deBolex Engineering captures the moment beautifully...

This two-minute film comes from London-based custom builder deBolex Engineering and showcases one of its more famous builds, based on a Ducati 749S. Taking design inspiration from racing cars, bikes, and aircraft of old, its fuel tank, tail, and belly pan were handcrafted from aluminium and painted in a striking blue and grey. Our favourite modification, however, must be the slash-cut exhausts, which, as you can hear in the video, turn this into one very angry Italian.

Photo and Video: deBolex Engineering

Gallery

Includes video

Has video

Source URL: <https://www.classicdriver.com/en/article/bikes/ogle-monstrous-ducati-it-goes-workbench-racetrack>

© Classic Driver. All rights reserved.