No, we haven't written the same article twice. Silverstone Auctions is hosting two sales this weekend: the first, comprising just competition cars, will take place on 23 February, while the second, the Classic Car Sale, will be held on 24 February. Two sales, one weekend — is there anything better?

After the excitement of the Race Retro Competition Car Sale on 23 February, why wouldn't you want to experience it over again the following day? Luckily, Silverstone Auctions will be hosting a second sale of classic cars on 24 February, providing a whole week of auction excitement. From modern classics (1981 Ferrari 512, estimated at 230,000–265,000 GBP) and future classics (2010 Porsche 911 GT2, estimated at 320,000–360,000 GBP) to standard classics (1956 Austin-Healey 100M, estimated at 160,000–185,000 GBP), Silverstone Auctions covers all meanings of the term 'classic' at this sale. You can browse the Race Retro Classic Car Sale catalogue in the Classic Driver Market or, alternatively, see your 10 favourites below.
