Did you know that Q will wear a Swatch in the new James Bond film No Time to Die? That exact piece is yet to be revealed, but to whet the appetite of its loyal followers, the Swiss brand has announced a 007-themed capsule collection inspired by posters and cover art of Ian Fleming's original novels...

No Mr. Bond, I expect you to tell me the time!

Six classic James Bond films are referenced in Swatch's playful new 007-themed capsule collection. It comprises three 34mm pieces, themed on License to Kill, Casino Royale and Dr. No, and three 41mm pieces referencing The World is Not Enough, Moonraker and On Her Majesty's Secret Service. Presented in a retro VHS style box, each of the quartz-powered watches is, as you'd expect from a Swatch, bold and vibrant, featuring iconic Bond motifs such as radar grids, playing card symbols and planes. Our favourite is the Dr. No The light-hearted Swatch X 007 range will be available to buy from 20 February, though you'll have to wait for the release of No Time to Die in April.
