The rescheduled release date for the latest James Bond film 'No Time to Die' is just around the corner and, lo and behold, Aston Martin is already cashing in on the occasion with special 007 Editions of the Vantage and DBS...

No Time to Die

While the new £279,000 Aston Martin DBS Superleggera 007 Edition is merely a copy of the largely standard Ceramic Grey car Daniel Craig's Bond will drive in No Time to Die (which is due to be released in November following its Covid-induced postponement), the counterpart Vantage is far more exciting. A tribute to the classic V8 which appeared in The Living Daylights, the Cumberland Grey Coupé boasts a range of special features ranging from the fantastic (ski rack and skis, anyone) to the faintly ridiculous ('f holes' from the cello on the carbon-backed seats – oh, perr-lease). Aston will build 100 Vantage 007 Editions, priced from £161,000, while a fractional number of 25 Bond-themed DBSs will see the light of day. And no, Léa Seydoux is not included with either car.
