Following our interview, Riocam, one of Instagram's most unique and forward-thinking artists, is auctioning four of his artworks as super limited NFTs between August 5th and 8th, and he couldn't have chosen a better quadruplet of supercar icons.

Last week, we had the immense pleasure of being able to chat with Camilo Rios, better known by his artist's pseudonym Riocam, about the ins and outs of shooting the worlds finest fast cars and fashion to create his surreal artworks. Now, we are pleased to announce that he will be auctioning four of his most recognisable pieces as NFTs (Non Fungible Tokens). Three of the pieces, simply titled Blue Lamborghini, Red Ferrari, and Divorce, will all be offered as digital artworks, each limited to 25 pieces, while Pink Testarossa is being sold as a one-off digital artwork.

Featuring a Lamborghini Countach LP5000 QV, Ferrari Enzo, Lamborghini Diablo VT, and Ferrari Testarossa 512 M respectively, we couldn't think of a better quartet of Italian supercars to star in Riocam's first ever NFTs. Of course, it's not just about the cars — the fashion and expertly portrayed attitude from Riocam's carefully selected models help to perfectly modernise the supercar posters of the 60s and 70s. The four pieces are being auctioned on Rubix Market between August 5th and 8th, so act quick if you want to secure one of these stunning digital artworks for yourself.
